

What are the factors contributing to alcohol use among Indigenous youth?

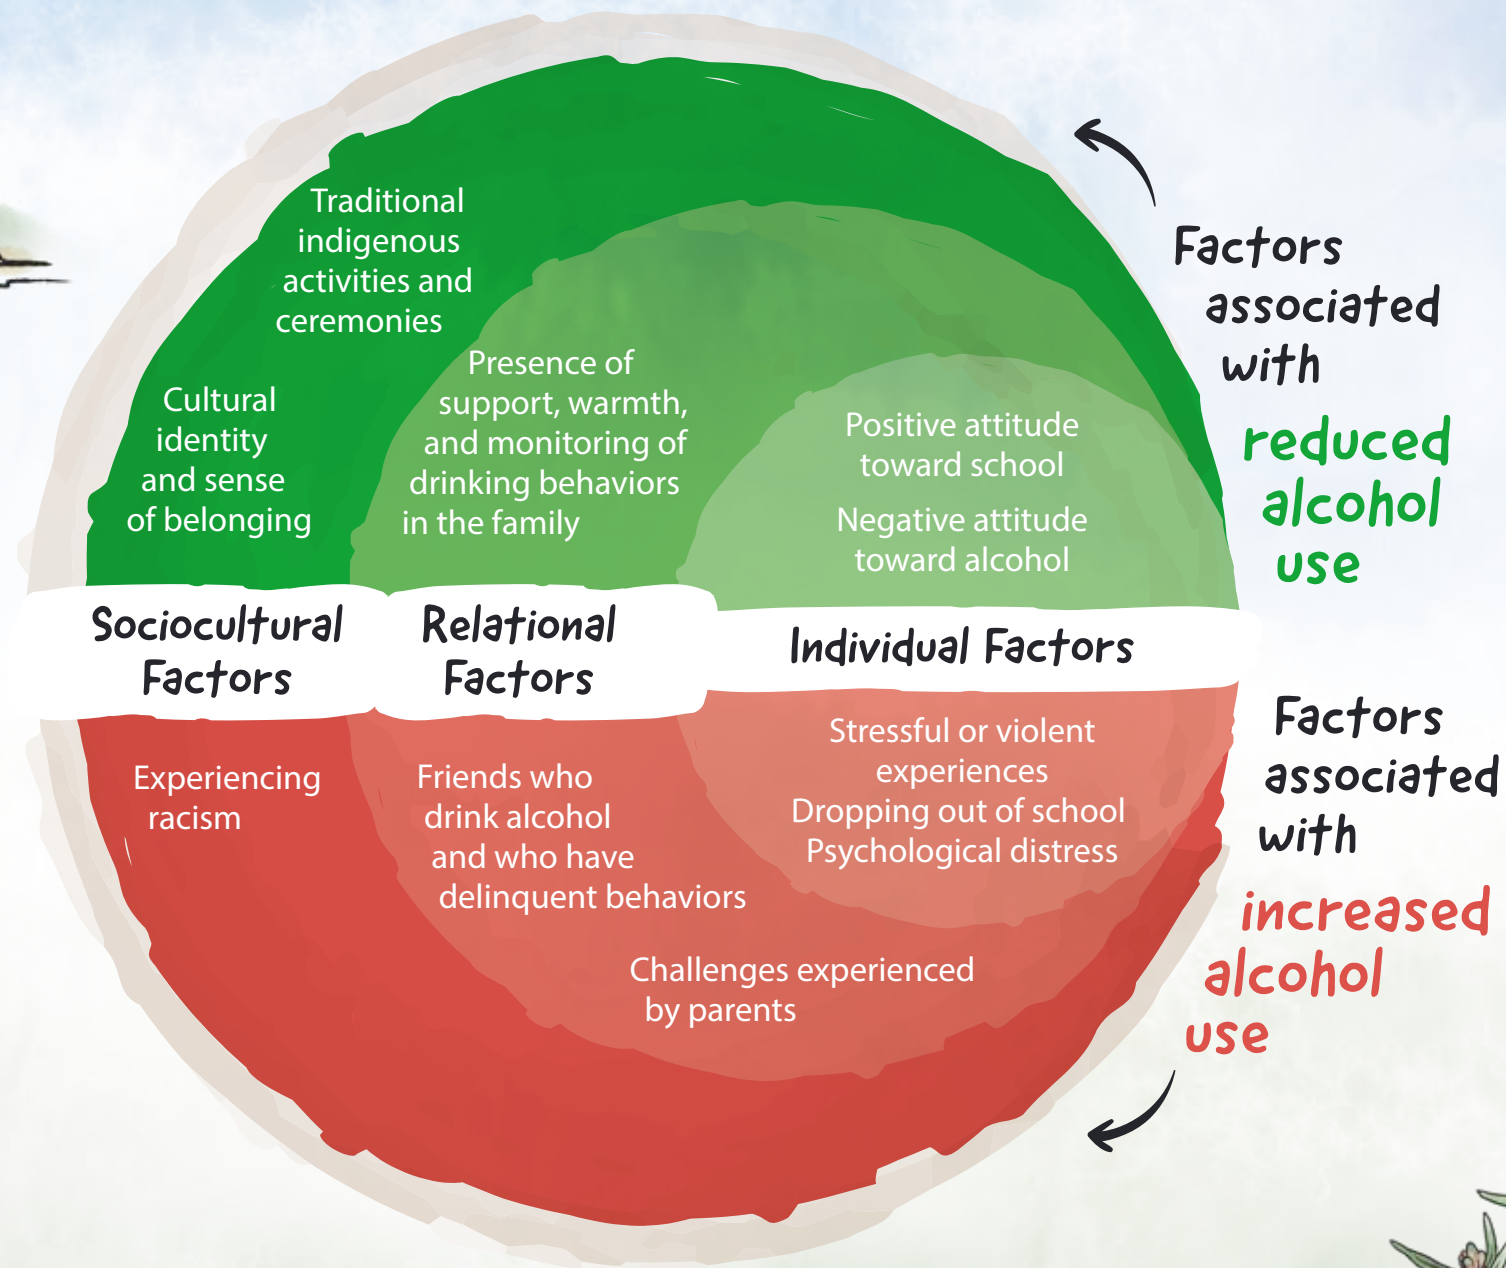

Understanding the factors contributing to alcohol use among Indigenous youth can foster the development of relevant intervention practices.

Alcohol use among Indigenous youth is not solely a result of individual factors but lies within a larger context.

Prioritize interventions that:

- Build on Indigenous youth relationships to their family, friends, and community.
- Value Indigenous cultures, identities, traditions, and knowledges.

This poster is based on the results of a publication entitled "Consommation d'alcool chez les jeunes Autochtones vivant en communauté et en milieu urbain".

To learn more:

This project was conducted in collaboration with:

First Nations of Quebec and Labrador Health and Social Services Commission

Regroupement des centres d'amitié autochtones du Québec

Nunavik Regional Board of Health and Social Services

